

Tourist Center Robbesscheier

The living museum of Robbesscheier in Munshausen combines traditional production methods with modern know-how. The goal is to convey to younger generations just where everyday objects and produce that we may take for granted come from, such as food or tools. In the Living Museum Robbesscheier children and adults alike discover old utensils and appliances, objects that illustrate the daily portion of difficulty and struggle the hard laboring farmers of old had to endure. Of course, in that natural sequence of events, the great Ardennes draft horse is inextricably linked to this hard living region. In the Robbesscheier the visitors learn a lot of interesting facts about this famous horse breed.

The site is largely accessible to visitors with reduced mobility.
